Morgan Haas focuses her practice on municipal finance matters, serving as bond counsel, underwriter's counsel, issuer's counsel, borrower's counsel and hospital counsel in a broad variety of multi-million dollar financings. Morgan's experience includes assisting clients with general obligation notes and bonds, revenue obligations, state revolving fund loans and other types of financings.

In addition to handling this work for municipalities, she assists clients in the education industry, including institutions of higher education, school districts and charter schools. She also has experience handling public financings for hospital systems, continuing care retirement communities and other nonprofit entities and institutions, including transactions involving projects in multiple states. Morgan also has involvement in transactional matters for two significant statewide transportation infrastructure systems and works closely with one statewide issuer.
