Kayleigh Keilty assists both businesses and individuals with civil litigation, including matters involving business and commercial disputes, complex insurance coverage and premises liability. Her experience includes cases in both state and federal courts throughout Maryland and various other jurisdictions. She has participated in trials, argued motions, and taken numerous depositions. Kayleigh also uses alternative dispute resolution to address these legal disputes, and has participated in over 200 cases as an attorney advocate. Her status as a certified mediator also informs her work advising clients in settlement discussions and providing perspective on what may constitute a favorable result.
