Law360 (January 15, 2026, 4:52 PM EST) -- Saul Ewing LLP has picked two longtime partners to serve five-year terms on its nine-member executive committee, the firm announced.

In its Monday announcement, Saul Ewing said that new member Rick Carroll is a Washington, D.C., attorney who chairs Saul Ewing's corporate practice group and serves on the firm's benefits committee.

Carroll specializes in guiding his clients, which include "domestic companies and international clients" that do business in the U.S., through corporate transactions and governance matters, the firm said.

"It is a privilege to be asked to serve on the executive committee and to help guide Saul Ewing's continued growth," Carroll said in a statement Monday. "Our history of excellence is built on the talent and dedication of our attorneys and staff, and I look forward to working to ensure that we continue to deliver the highest level of service and value to our clients."

The other new member, Anthony Kang, is a Miami attorney who serves as vice chair of the firm's transactional department and its real estate practice, Saul Ewing said.

Kang specializes in corporate, financing and real estate deals and his fluent Mandarin allows him to work with international clients, the firm said.

"It is the honor of my career to be nominated by my incredible partners to serve on the executive committee," Kang said in a Monday statement. "I am grateful for the opportunity to contribute and lead, as well as to continue to provide excellent client service with my amazing colleagues for years to come."

Carroll received his law degree from Cornell University Law School.

Kang received his law degree from Washington University School of Law in St. Louis.
